So, here are the few cleaning tips that will help you to keep the dishwasher clean and also helps in running smoothly.Follow the instructions properly, so that your Kitchenaid dishwasher filter will work for a longer period.1. Clean the outer sideThe exterior of the Kitchenaid dishwasher has not been involved in the cleaning of dishes but still one needs to clean the outer side of the dishwasher.In most cases, the spilled foods or the water stains will hide the stainless steel finish making it look less attractive. You can use some cleaning solutions like glass cleaner. This will remove the tough grimes and smudges off the surface easily.But if you are using any cleaning solution, then don't spray it directly as the moisture may affect or damage the electronic devices. So, spray it on a soft cloth and apply it gently on the surfaces, even one can use the soapy water and sponge.*2. Take care of the inner sideCleaning inside of the Kitchenaid dishwasher plays an important role, as there will be junk of foods that will get trapped in the filter.These kinds of issues can't be noticed easily, and in extreme cases, the trash of food will gum up the work and it will result in the improper cleaning of the dishes.The first need you need to do once you have opened the dishwasher is clean the filters. You can remove the bottom rack of the dishwasher.The Kitchenaid dishwasher has a removable triple filter system so it can be easily removed.There will be a cylindrical upper filter at the top which you need to remove by rotating it in the counter-clockwise direction and then taking the lower filter which is found under the propeller.But remember while cleaning the filter system, don't use any coarse scrub or brushes or scouring pads. Use a soft brush to remove the debris and then rinse it in the running water.*3. Make use of cleaning productsWhen it comes to cleaning the dishwasher, most people think that they need expensive cleaning products. But it is not, even using white vinegar you can able to clean it.Take two cups and fill them with vinegar and place them in the bottom rack of the dishwasher. Then you can start the cycle empty and during the operation, this acetic vinegar will strip away all the hard-to-reach food particles and soap scum.You don't have to use any detergent, as vinegar is enough for cleaning which will do the job effectively and perfectly.But remember if you are using vinegar for cleaning then don't use it more than once a month. As too much usage of vinegar will damage the inner side of the dishwasher.*4. Finishing matters the mostEven though you are cleaning the dishwasher frequently, still there are chances where you will be getting lingering odors. At that time, you can use baking soda to clean the dishwasher.Once you are finished the cleaning process with vinegar, sprinkle some baking soda at the bottom of the dishwasher and then start the cycle empty.If you want you can use the hot water for effective results. Following this step, will result in a sparkling clean, and smelling fresh dishwasher.5. Keep up the cleaning workIf you want a clean and odor-free dishwasher then you need to clean the dishwasher once in a while, which is the mandatory cleaning tip.There are few steps to implement in between the cleaning process to make your dishwasher more functional.If your sink is linked with the dishwasher, then you need to remove the disposals before loading the dishes into the dishwasher.This will keep the sink from getting clogged and also it will prevent it from getting mixed in the wash.Also, if you want you can check whether there is any large bit of food in the drain to prevent the blockage even before it starts.*How To find out when the filters need to be cleaned?The Kitchenaid dishwasher filters need to be cleaned if you found any visible objects or soils in the upper filter assembly.Also, your dishes won't be completely cleaned as there will be soil present on your cleaned dishes. Even after the cleaning, the dishes will feel gritty to the touch.*Passing words:Follow the above general guidelines if you want to prevent blockage in the filter. Also, you can follow the user manual if you are looking for specific requirements and procedures. Dishwashers are meant to wash and clean your dishes. With that in mind, you do not need to hand wash your dishes before placing them in the dishwasher. If dishes are cleaned before dishwasher use, over time, the detergent can cause a white etching on your dishes. This etching is permanent and cannot be removed. Remove residue from detergents by cleaning the interior once a month. See symptom for "Cleaning the Interior" listed above. The best way to prepare your dishes for the dishwasher is to scrape large food particles off your dishes. Then load the dishes into the dishwasher. It is not necessary to wash or even rinse your dishes before putting them in the dishwasher. If you do not have a full load, or you do not want to run it immediately, run a "Rinse and Hold" or "Rinse Only" cycle (on some models) on your dishwasher (without detergent). This keeps the dishes moist and eliminates odor build-up. Run this cycle every 24 hours until you have a full load, and then run a complete cycle. Turn the upper filter assembly ¼ turn counterclockwise and lift out. Separate the object cup in the front and below the lower rack. The maintenance-free filter system does not require any regular cleaning or maintenance. If this cup fills up with particles or objects, depress the tab in the center and pull up on the cup to remove it. Dispose of the contents and then replace the cup. To replace the cup, put into the opening and push down to lock in place. CLICK HERE to watch the video of filter cleaning. The pump is protected from large objects entering it by the foreign
